Le Gossipe Parisienne

VAN RIJN RETIRES TO COUNTRY ESTATE WITH ROXANNE. DeLAMPALLE AND DIDEROT KILLED ON CAMPAIGN. FRANCOIS De SADE AND Fr. GUIDO SANTINI ARRIVE IN PARIS. L'OISEAU PARTY A BUST, HOST GOES TO FRONT IN DISGRACE AS CREDITORS DEMAND MONEY.(GP) The party thrown in August by M. L'Oiseau was a disaster for the host although the Parisienne Fund for Starving and Injured Urchins did benefit from the proceedings to the tune of 1730 crowns, a generous sum. Unfortunately for M L'Oiseau the wine he purchased for the event was of a very poor quality, the composer he hired for the occasion was a hack and the certificate of award was edged in gold paint rather than gilt. Neither the Crown Prince nor the Cardinal, both of whom were in attendance, were amused. To add insult to injury when his creditors came for the repayment of certain debts M. L'Oiseau was unable to come up with the money and was compelled to retire to a Frontier Regiment to raise the needed funds.

Speaking of retiring, the illustrious Duc Van Rijn, Pretender the the throne of France announced his retirement at the aforementioned party. The Duc, who appears to have come to some arrangement with the Crown Prince, announced that since Mlle. Roxanne was threatening to sue for palimony unless their situation were to become legitimate has decided to retire to his small country estate, Burgandy. When the Duc was asked by a certain cub reporter, James Olsen of an inferior competitor to our fine paper, where in Burgandy the estate was located the Duc replied imperiously, "By Damn young man it IS Burgandy. I bought the whole damn place und I got Guadeloupe and Martenique as part of the deal for summer resorts. My Religious adviser, Fr. Guido Santini, says I can be tax exempt religion so I is now Rev. Van Rijn. Anyhow if anybody in der government says I isn't, I is always der Pretender to der throne und I can come back und BE der government, so's be good or I come back and be Minister of State again."

The Father Guido Santini to whom the Duc refered was recently interviewed and it appears that he had served a brief term in the Army of the Papal States but during an assignment in Salerno had sold a small piece of waterfront property to a certain Vito Corleone and when the latter discovered the the front upon which the water bordered was the top he was not amused and Fr. Santini was compelled to resign his commission and move himself and his family to Paris. It is fortunate that his father is a very wealthy merchant who was able to load the family fortune on his ships and relocate. On his arrival in Paris Fr. Santini was heard to say, "I-a-lova Paris. Its a land of opportunity. A man can a getta rich here if he wella connected and how much a betta connected can a you get than if a you a man of God."

ayers are reminded to submit the Winter 1617-17 En Garde moves not later that March 10, 1984 to THE KING, 206 SCHOOL STREET, FAIRFIELD, CT. 06430.

DR. NOTS G. NIVIL arrives in Zanzibar. He begins to organize a foot expedition to walk backwards into the heart of the African continent. He says that he...plans to buy an equal amount of bearers and rations, plus whatever gifts are needed to carry them."

The great trek continues up the Cuene River, as ORTE'GO DE DAGO moves his small army deeper into Africa. He moves up the river through known territory (hexes 512->514->515->532). He builds a small city in hex 532, a swamp hex with the river flowing in direction 1 into hex 516. He pauses in the swamp as he completes his grand plan to push back the African frontier.

"The smell of gunpowder in the morning smells like victory," remarks ROBERT FROMAGE IV. "There is nothing like a good fight to get your blood flowing," Fromage says, after a volley of fire breaks a charge of 10 warriors of the Makua tribe. The battle occurred as he moved into hex 332, which is a veldt hex, with the river flowing in direction 1, into hex 298. After his glorious victory, he is heard to shout at one of his Askaris, "you have lost all that I have gained here today by not finding their village!" His hunters do provide the expedition with 2 rations each.

MADemoiselle ROXY LARUE decides that she has spent enough time leaning against trees and moves on up the Vaal River. She moves into hex 606, which she discovers is desert and the river continues in direction 1. She does not find any natives. She finds enough game to avoid starvation. She must look for some interesting specimens next turn.

Prof. HUMBERT spends his entire turn staring at a tree, whispering something under his breath. His hunters each obtain 1 ration! He is too busy to notice that his two bearers are not fed and become sick.

DOCTOR HYPQ GUY CEMIA stumbles into Khartoum this turn mumbling something about "bon-bons, bon-bons". He was last seen attempting to devour a small house while shouting "a glorious amount of fudge!"

ALFRED H. McGUFFIN's expedition is attacked by 40 cannibals in a grand battle. His Askaris break after the cannibals charge, but McGuffin manages to escape with one Askaris and a musket. He moves into hex 444, which is a mountain-jungle hex, with a highest peak of 10,800 ft, fortunately not high enough to cause McGuffin to suffer from vertigo. He does manage to avoid starvation this turn.

Prof. O'FORAN suffers a minor setback in dealing with the natives of the Kabinda tribe when he finds himself sick with a strange disease. It was reported that he was close to death, but the details are not known. He does manage to buy 24 rations and hires 2 bearers. He now finds that guides now want only 1 gift to hire on, bearers want 1 gift and Askaris want 6 gifts. A canoe sells for 1 gift and one gift will buy 1 ration.

GUIDO VITTORIO SCONZINESE decides that it's time to move back toward Mombassa. He moves from hex 252 into hex 276, which is a mountain hex with a peak of 11,500 ft, encounters a small band of slavers moving towards Mombassa with captives. He says a prayer of forgiveness for them, blesses them and as a sign of faith gives them everything he has.
